The Texas Common Course Numbering System is a voluntary, co-operative effort among Texas community colleges and universities to facilitate transfer of freshman- and sophomore-level general academic coursework.

The TCCNS System provides a shared, uniform set of course designations for students and their advisors to use in determining both course equivalency and degree applicability of transfer credit on a statewide basis. When students transfer between two participating TCCNS institutions, a course taken at the sending institution transfers as the course carrying, or cross-referenced with, the same TCCNS designation at the receiving institution.

To date, 110 institutions of higher learning in Texas participate in the TCCNS project. Most community colleges have replaced their internal course numbering systems with TCCNS designations; a few have not and, like universities, cross-reference their courses with the TCCNS system.
