Greetings Colleagues,

I have news that may slow down, but will not halt, Gov Doc ILL request fulfillment for my library by a day or so. As we are a 74% selective with a good portion of our holdings in OCLC, we see a sizable number of requests, and wanted to give a heads up to the Documents community. For details, see below.

The renovation of the Zach S. Henderson Library is expected to be completed in time that the full building, housing all our collections, furnishings, and personnel, will be available to the public by the beginning of fall classes in August of 2008. Regrettably, in February of 2008 the University must raze the building in which the Federal documents collection is now temporarily housed. Therefore the documents collection will have to be temporarily housed in other quarters between February and August of 2008.

Reference materials, high use materials, and newly received depository materials, will be moved near the reference desk on the third floor of the library addition, which is currently open to the public while the original building is renovated.

Microform collections, documents videos, and Georgia state documents will be housed with the Documents personnel and these items will be paged for patrons upon demand. Government documents service will be offered from the general reference desk.
The remainder of the print Federal depository collections will be moved to a warehouse and shelved on open stacks in SuDocs number order. Documents, maps, and CD-ROMs will also be located in the warehouse. For the past two years this warehouse has stored the majority of the library’s book collection for which we do not have room in Henderson Library during renovations.

All government documents materials, whether temporarily housed in the library addition or in remote storage, will continue to be available for request by other libraries through traditional interlibrary loan protocols. Please be aware that if you send patrons to us, they should call a day ahead to have us retrieve the materials they need, so we can have them available at the Circulation Desk when the patron arrives.

Our contact information will remain the same. Feel free to contact us with any questions during this time. We will notify this list when our move into the renovated building is complete.

Subject: Re: EPA Pilot Project comment period extended - Please respond

Fellow govdocs enthusiasts:

I really strongly urge you to respond to GPO's plea expressed below and have a look at the EPA publications they have made available through web harvesting. Then comment. I commented last week and it is a very short form. The form itself takes less than ten minutes and if you are already somewhat familiar with EPA documents it shouldn't take very long to skim a dozen or so of GPO's sample and make comments.

Last time GPO asked for comments on a proposal of theirs regarding depository assessments they got 23 responses out of the nation's 1200+ depositories. Given they've extended the comment time to February 8th, I'm somewhat concerned they've received similar dismal numbers this time as well. This isn't acceptable if we want GPO to treat us as the partners we claim we want to be at any of the DLC meetings I have been to. Web harvesting is going to a big part of any future government information program. As document specialists past and present we owe it to our users to pay attention to this issue and make comments. Otherwise we are as precisely irrelevant as some make us out to be.

I'm not telling you how to comment, but I am pleading with you to read and comment. It is our responsibility as information partners with the GPO. Thanks, Daniel

Subject: LC Class for Bound Committee Documents

We received a set of bound Congressional documents, reports and hearings from our local Congressman who donated his papers to our library. These appear to be specially bound for the Congressman and include his name on the spine. The bound volumes themselves look very similar to the bound volumes of the Congressional serial set. As examples, one volume contains all the Congressional documents that came out of the Committee on the Judiciary during the 99th Congress. Another volume has the Congressional reports from the Committee on the Judiciary during the 94th Congress. I am stumped on the LC class to use for the bound documents. For the Committee on the Judiciary reports the schedules have KF32.J8; for committee hearings there is KF27.J8...(dependent on subcommittee); and statutes there is KF51.

What class can be used for the bound committee documents? My searching of OCLC shows that each document is classified separately.

Are there any documents catalogers out there who can provide some advice for this situation?? Maybe I'm taking the wrong approach in the cataloging of these volumes?? Thanks.

Greetings Everyone,

I wanted to let everyone know about a website we've been developing at UCB which houses electronic tutorials on doing congressional research.

http://sunsite3.berkeley.edu/wikis/congresresearch/

This site houses short tutorials on finding bills, hearings, and debates (including how to use the Congressional Record in paper), and allows you to pause the tutorial at any point and practice in the live database below the tutorial (if there is a database). It also contains links to current congressional news, recent votes, and a Google Custom Search Engine focused on Congressional websites. The site is still a work in progress, and we will be adding more tutorials as time goes on as well as some functionality to make the site more 508 compliant.

The project was developed by Karen Munroe (our E-Learning librarian) and myself. Feel free to link to any of the tutorials or the whole site. If you have any questions, comments or suggestions, please send them to me or click on the "write to us" link on the site's homepage and submit via a web form.

An article on the technology behind the site will be forthcoming in DttP.

Thanks,
Jesse
