University Housing

The Department of University Housing at Texas A&M-Corpus Christi strives to provide quality on-campus student housing. The department endeavors to facilitate the educational mission of the University by creating living environments that foster the growth and development of all students participating in the housing program.

Camden Miramar, in partnership with Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi provides quality housing facilities and services to the students of the institution.

We endeavor to provide housing that is clean, comfortable and convenient at a fair market value. We aspire to promote an environment that is attractive, well maintained and pleasant.

We seek to create a community of respect and civility by and for all members, and that promotes the values intrinsic to an institution of higher education. We foster the growth and development of our residents through the facilitation of extracurricular activities founded on the principles of wellness. We promote programs that are intended to inform, educate, and engage students in their own development.

University Housing Access Statement:
Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi has a variety of living options available to students. Whether you want to live in an on-campus residence hall or apartment, or prefer an off campus housing experience, A&M-Corpus Christi is eager to assist you with your housing needs. The primary goal of on campus housing at A&M-CC is to foster retention. Traditional first and second year students entering college at the University for the first time will be given priority for on campus housing assignments. A traditional first year college student is typically one who arrives on-campus in the academic year following high school graduation, is 18-19 years of age, seeks their education on a full-time basis, and is unmarried without children or other dependents. A traditional first year college student is expected to complete 30 semester hours of credit in their first year. Traditional second year college students are expected to have completed 60 semester credit hours by the end of their second year.
