If you are considering a career as an educational leader, perhaps as a school principal or superintendent or an administrator at a college or university, we offer two degrees that will interest you: the Master or Science in Educational Administration and the Doctor of Education in Educational Leadership.

The department also provides the courses you will need to prepare for certification as a principal or superintendent. These courses are included in the curriculum for our master's program, or if you already have a master's degree, they can be taken separately.

Browse the links to the left for more information on our Master's Program, Doctoral Program, and certification preparation.
