The Department of Teacher Education helps educate and prepare certified teachers. Whether you are earning your bachelor's degree, working on your master's, or thinking about a career change, the Department of Teacher Education offers all the preparation you will need to become a certified teacher.

Through a combination of coursework and experience in the field, our students learn to become effective instructors and lifelong learners. Our students pass their certification exams at consistently high rates.

Browse the links at left for more information on how to become a teacher through our undergraduate or graduate programs.